

SENIOR POSITION (HT SWITCHGEAR DESIGN & DEVELOPMENT)

Job Profile :

He will be responsible for development of new products / designs / up gradation of products to meet the market needs.

Job Description

- Responsible for developing products as per market demand keeping product cost and time frames within stipulated targets
- Responsible for product launching activities like design, prototype development, testing, design review and upgradation for customer satisfaction
- Leadership to Design Groups for new products as per Company's strategy, provide necessary support in terms of training/exposure for talent development
- Liaison with Marketing, Purchase and Production functions for product design / re-engineering / vendor development and introduce a cross functional work culture to eliminate errors/delays in product launching
- To identify opportunities for and carry out Value engineering of components / products

Qualification :

A Graduate Electrical/Mechanical Engineer with strong engineering concepts and passion for design/application research work.

Experience :

The candidate should have around 10-12 years experience in the field of applications research related to Switchgear Industry. He should be capable of designing and launching new products in Switchgear and its related areas and give leadership to the respective design teams he is heading. A person with proven track record and thorough knowledge of new generation technology, familiarity with manufacturing processes and Indian market conditions would be preferred.

Age :

Preferably between 40-45 years